PROCESSING PHASE CHANGE MATERIAL TO IMPROVE PROGRAMMING SPEED

Abstract of the Disclosure

A phase change material may be processed to reduce its microcrystalline grain size and may also be processed to increase the crystallization or set programming speed of the material. For example, material doped with nitrogen to reduce grain size may be doped with titanium to reduce crystallization time.